SMOOTHING PROTEIN CONSULTATION

CAUTION: NOT RECOMMENDED ON BLONDE HAIR.
DO NOT USE WHILST PREGNANT OR BREAST FEEDING

On grey hair yellowing may occur. In some cases hair may fade up to 4 levels. Perform strand test prior to use: apply the product, leave for 45-60 minutes, rinse, dry and flat iron.

We have provided you with a guide to heat temperatures on hair types. This is a guide only and would be used in conjunction with a full consultation and strand test.

The hair should never be overheated (start on a reasonable heat and turn iron up by 5 degrees at a time until iron runs through easily and steams).

In all cases the iron should be creating steam, even on a low temperature; a silky shiny appearance should be visible. If this isn't the case, turn your iron up in 5 degree increments, until it is sliding through the hair freely. This will help you determine the most accurate temperature for your client.

Take into consideration texture, porosity, elasticity and the general wellbeing of the hair.

Do not apply unnecessary high temperatures to delicate hair. By taking a strand test, and following manufacturer's instructions, you will eliminate overheating this hair type.

Spending the time conducting a thorough consultation will enable you to achieve sensational results.

Using the table as a guide, we ask you to do a strand test first to determine the most appropriate heat required for your hair type/condition.

HAIR TYPE	PASSES	TEMP
Fine-Medium Hair Previous Chemical History	6-10 Approx.	150°-210°
Medium-Coarse Hair Previous Chemical History	8-10 Approx.	170°-220°
Coarse, Resistant & Virgin No Chemical History	10-20 Approx. NB: Virgin hair requires extra passes as more resistant and no chemical damage to the cuticle.	180°-230°
